

Understanding and Managing Behaviour

A unique blending learning course

This course, run by Online Training Ltd, offers you the opportunity to learn about some of the main causal factors for behaviour challenges. From that point you will then consider practical responses to help off-set them occurring in the first instance and address them as and when they do arise.

The course takes 12-16 hours to complete and takes the form of a blended learning approach which includes:

- direct face-to-face tuition
- online learning modules which you can progress with at your own pace
- accessing support via forums with other participants

The course structure is such that participants are able to progress at their own pace, making ideal for busy teachers, SENCOs and support staff juggling the many demands of their job.

Key learning objectives include:

- Agreeing on what we mean by 'challenging behaviour'
- To raise awareness of different theories of behaviour
- To understand how special needs can result in challenging behaviour
- To raise awareness of the importance of relationships

About the course tutor – Steve Russell

Steve has over 15 years experience specialising in behaviour, including working with youngsters at risk of exclusion and as a Senior School Improvement Consultant for Behaviour and Attendance.

He is highly regarded as a trainer, consultant and coach, with schools valuing the way he blends credible theory with practical strategies, all with a distinctly personal touch.

All Online Training Ltd courses have a strong emphasis upon practical application. As part of the course, participants keep a log and will have regular contact with Steve. He will support both with the theory and the action planning aspects of the course.

Upon successful completion, participants are awarded a certificate.
